

EES May

My activities for this month consist of a lot of training, immersing myself in many different technologies and learning how to use them. This benefits my technical competence mostly, but it also improves my soft skills as well. This is because it practices my adaptation skills, as well as practicing patience and good work ethic.

These soft skills are essential because of all the certification the company needs. I need to be able to learn new technology quickly and be able to get certified in a very short time span. This has also led me to be able to work better under time & pressure.S
