Technical Competence June

      For this final month of June, my technical competence around the field of networking has really been tested. I have improved a lot in terms of system comprehension and application, as I did a large final project as well as continuing on my past trainings. The project involved a lot of understanding of the specific technology that I have studied for the entire internship, and the trainings is an exercise of my system comprehension. These activities is the mark for the end of my internship period, so I feel like I have improved overall when compared to the start of the internship period.
